Matters of Life and Death

A Catholic Guide to the Moral Questions of Our Time

Gerard M Verschuuren

Human beings are born with an innate sense of right and wrong, yet the complicated world we live in constantly interferes with our natural understanding of life and death, sexuality and sex, pro-life and pro-choice, prolonging or shortening life. This book does not so much introduce a new method of navigation as acquaint the reader with the precepts the Church has long provided as a means to hone our faculties of moral judgment.

Father Ignatius Spencer

English Noble and Christian Saint

Gerard Skinner

Great, great, great uncle of Princess Diana and great uncle to Winston Churchill, Ignatius Spencer (1799-1864) renounced his wealth and position in society to serve the poor. He joined the Passionists, an austere religious order, and begged his way around the British Isles and beyond. To some, he was a 'dirty, mad mendicant', but in Ireland, where he preached in hundreds of churches and chapels, he was much loved. Today, he is under consideration for canonization.

The Scrappy Evangelist

Chesterton and a New Apologetics for Today

Fr Paul Rowan

How do we defend the faith in today's world? Where are the connecting points with an audience that does not even care about religion? What will prevent us from being merely reactionary? Surprisingly, the best strategy may come from a writer who anticipated our present problem a hundred years ago: G.K. Chesterton. In this scholarly, yet scrappy approach, English priest and former boxer Paul Rowan masterfully makes the case of how Chesterton can be used to develop a new apologetics to engage the post-modern age.
